

Barbara Kohn, Dr. med. vet., PD, DipECVIM-CA

Barbara graduated from LM-University Munich and performed a doctoral thesis in veterinary physiology. Then she worked as an assistant in private small animal clinics and as a resident in small animal internal medicine at the University of Zurich. From 1994 till 1996 she performed a postdoctoral research fellowship at the University of Pennsylvania. Since 1996 Barbara works at the Clinic for Small Animals of the Freie Universität Berlin, first as a senior lecturer and assistant professor and since 2003 as Professor of Small Animal Internal Medicine. Since 2003 she is vice director / director of the Clinic for Small Animals. She has published more than 150 peer-reviewed articles and 20 book chapters, is editor of a journal and of 3 textbooks, and is member of several professional veterinary organizations. She is particularly interested in infectious diseases, hematology, transfusion medicine, clinical immunology, and gastrointestinal diseases.